
Becky Smarr
PT, COS-C
SENIOR MANAGER

Rebecca received her B.S. from the Medical University of South Carolina's School of Physical Therapy and did additional graduate work at the University of South Carolina.

She began her thirty-plus year career in home health as a field physical therapist in the public health arena. She rapidly progressed to leadership roles, first as the Chief Physical Therapy Consultant for the South Carolina Department of Health's Division of Home Health Services where she grew and developed the rehab component of the program. She continued to cultivate her leadership skills as a Rehabilitation Manager and Branch Manager in the Adventist Health System in Colorado. Upon relocating to Houston, she was named as the Director of Rehab at St. Luke's Home Health Services. In 2001, she joined Tender Loving Care as the National Director of Rehab Services and later additionally served as National Director of Specialty Programs.

Rebecca began her consulting career in 2008, working with national consulting firms and with independent clients on assignments such as clinical due diligence, OASIS validation and training, compliance reviews, ADR and denial management and appeals, documentation review and training, and case management coaching. Her area of special expertise is the assessment and resolution of therapy documentation and management issues.

A Certified OASIS Specialist, Rebecca has published in CARING and Home Healthcare Nurse and is a well-received speaker and dynamic teacher. She is a long-time member of APTA and its Home Health Section. Her commitment to personal and professional ethics and quality care, combined with wide-ranging clinical, operational, and management experience, makes her a great match with the Simione team of home health experts.
